An Encouraging Word Taylor Creek Church

By Pastor Jason Katzen

Comedian Lenny Bruce once shared his philosophy of life like this: “Look, you have only sixty-five years to live. Before you’re twenty, you can’t enjoy anything because you don’t know what’s going on. After you’re fifty, you can’t enjoy it either because you don’t have the physical energies. So you only have around twenty-five years, and I’m going to swing.” He died of an overdose of morphine at age forty. It is obvious that Lenny Bruce really did not understand what joy is and, therefore, never found it.

It is amazing how many people seem to never find true joy. I think of Ernest Hemingway, whose name is still known today. Wealthy, successful, and popular, what else could you want? Yet these did not provide him true joy. Hemingway, in his own words, said, “I live in a vacuum that is as lonely as a radio tube when the batteries are dead, and there is no current to plug into.” He took his own life.

What is the key to having sustained joy? The key is, first of all, to understand that joy is not a feeling. It is a proper perspective. It is not how you are affected by things but how you look at things.

Hours before He suffered on the cross for the sins of the world, which included you and me, Jesus spoke to his disciples, telling them, “Abide in Me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself unless it abides in the vine, so neither can you unless you abide in Me. ⁵ “I am the vine, you are the branches; he who abides in Me and I in him, he bears much fruit, for apart from Me you can do nothing. - John 15:4-5. Jesus concluded this by saying, “These things I have spoken to you so that My joy may be in you, and that your joy may be made full.”- John 15:11.

By the world’s standards, if you simply looked at the outward suffering of the disciples for the name of Christ, they should have been the most miserable men on earth. Yet, to the contrary, they were full of joy because they were abiding in Christ. The Apostle Peter, speaking to a persecuted people, said, “Though you have not seen Him, you love Him, and though you do not see Him now, but believe in Him, you greatly rejoice with joy inexpressible and full of glory” - 1 Peter 1:8.

Joy is not in the transience of our circumstances but in the solidity of the Savior Jesus Christ. It is in the abiding that our joy can be made full and liberally supplied.

Would you like to know more? We would love to speak with you. Call us at 425-432-0634, or contact us at www.taylorcreekchurch.org. We invite you to join us for Sunday service: 9:00 AM for Sunday School and 10:15 AM for Worship. Address: 21110 244th Ave. S.E., Maple Valley.

Jayne Arden Hurlbut

February 23, 1943
March 25, 2025

Jayne A Cowan Hurlbut was born in Sacramento, CA to Max and Opal-Jane Cowan. At a young age, she ventured to Seattle on her own and found work at West Tours Travel Agency. She became enamored with the Pacific Northwest and met her husband, Clarke Harold Hurlbut, a Seattle native.

Jayne was a force of nature, living life to the fullest. Passionate about her family, friends, and social calendar, she never missed a book club, garden club, or bunco night. Married for 55 years to her dream maker, Clarke, they built a cottage-like castle in Maple Valley, Washington, envisioning a bed and breakfast guest house that Clarke brought to life. Operating her B&B for 30 years was her joy.

Jayne delighted in her three children, Clarke Kent, Shana Leah, and Blake Byron. She dove head-first into mothering, joining La Leche League, the local toddler group, and throwing over-the-top birthday parties. As her children grew, their successes and passions became hers as well. She traveled the world, collecting memories and treasures from Brazil to Barcelona, loving every moment.

Hospitality was at the heart of her home, hosting dozens of exchange students from around the world and sharing her love of the Pacific Northwest with each of them. Jayne had a heart for missions, supporting missionaries globally and traveling to Nicaragua with Corner of Love. She and Clarke were charter members of Maple Valley Church, deeply rooted in Christ through this community.

Jayne was an avid birder, taking birding trips locally and guided tours in Mexico. Parakeets, doves, a cockatiel, chickens, and peacocks all called Maple Valley B&B home. Garage sales were her weakness, with collections of dishes, books, art, and furniture - she always found a treasure. Friendship was her specialty; maintaining numerous lifelong friendships and fostering new relationships came easy to Jayne. Her personality was an eclectic mix of confidence, curiosity, good humor, and unique spirited banter. Priceless memories that will continue to delight, she freely gave.

Thank you, Jayne, “The” life of the party. A Celebration of Life was be held at Maple Valley Church on Saturday, April 26 at 1 p.m.

The Reserve Silica Reclamation site is located between Ravensdale and Black Diamond, Washington. The site is in a historical mining area where coal and sandstone have been mined from a tilted bedrock formation south of Ravensdale Lake and Ravensdale Creek.

Two surface mining pits – the Lower Disposal Area and Dale Strip Pit – were reclaimed with cement kiln dust (CKD) and mining spoils between 1979 and 1988 under the permitting authorities of two King County agencies, currently known as King County Department of Local Services and Public Health – Seattle & King County.

CKD is a waste product from cement processing. CKD reacts with water to form calcium hydroxide, which can increase the pH to greater than 12 standard units creating caustic water. Caustic water has seeped from the Lower Disposal Area since the 1980s. The cleanup site is associated with the release of contamination from the CKD.

Reserve Silica Corporation and Holcim (US) Inc. entered into an agreed order under the state's cleanup law, the Model Toxics Control Act (MTCA) in December 2019. The Agreed Order requires the companies to complete a:

- Remedial Investigation
- Feasibility Study
- Preliminary Draft Cleanup Action Plan

Public Review and Comment
Draft Remedial Investigation - The Draft Remedial Investigation Report describes the history, regulatory and environmental settings, field investigations, conceptual site model, Site boundary, and cleanup standards.

When Coal Was King

By Bill Kombol

Black Diamond Baseball Team 1924

By late April baseball is played throughout the country. Major League Baseball, minor leagues, colleges, high schools, and Little League are all in full swing. Baseball in the United States developed from older ball-and-bat games like rounders and cricket that had been played in England since before the American Revolution. Baseball's early rules were developed around New York and Brooklyn in 1845. A baseball craze hit the New York metropolitan area in the mid-1850s, and by 1856 journalists were referring to game as the "national pastime." The National Agreement of 1903 formalized two major leagues, and the first World Series was played that fall.

In coal mining towns like Black Diamond, baseball and soccer were widely popular. The coal company financed sporting teams and good players were often recruited by offering choice jobs in the mines. All the surrounding mining towns fielded teams. Intense rivalries developed and "fights were the normal way to end the ball game," according to Dusalina Cavaletto, who later became a school teacher in Renton and whose life was profiled in the March 2019 issue of the Renton History Museum newsletter.

The baseball field along Highway 169 in the center of town dates to about 1900 when the Black Diamond Coal Mining Company donated a marshy area for a sports field. During off-hours and weekends, coal miners wheelbarrowed fill dirt and in time a real baseball field took shape. By 1915, a wooden stadium, bleachers, and bandstand were built and baseball games between rival coal mining teams were one of the top entertainment draws in town. The ballfield was even surrounded by an eight-foot-high wood fence. The property is now owned by the Enumclaw School District with a deed restriction forever reserving the property for athletic and recreational use by town folks.

Throughout town, children, both boys and girls played baseball on any level cow field or dirt lot that could be found. Ed Banchemo remembered playing in the Cazaza family's pasture, using dried cow pies as bases. Banchemo recalled several informal teams organized along ethnic lines featuring Italians, Finlanders, and the Welsh and English. Banchemo and many of his Italian playmates from childhood later played on the high school team.
